WHEREAS, An estimated 10 million U.S. children are exposed to domestic violence each year; and

WHEREAS, Rates of partner violence are higher among couples with children than those without children; and

WHEREAS, In Rhode Island in 2015 (the most recent year for which full data are available), police reports indicate that children were present at 28% of domestic violence incidents resulting in arrests. However, that number is but a small percentage of the number of children affected by violence due to myriad additional situations of children's connection with violence that goes unidentified, undocumented, and untreated; and

WHEREAS, The impact of violence on children who see or hear non-domestic acts of violence, or who have lost family members or friends through non-domestic acts of violence, or whose friends have lost family members through acts of violence, often live day-to-day in fear of ongoing violence in their communities; and

WHEREAS, The effect and consequences of this violence on our children's lives both emotionally and educationally must be recorded and evaluated, and methods of healing these often unseen wounds must be comprehensive and collectively available in our schools and our communities; now, therefore be it

RESOLVED, That a special legislative commission be and the same is hereby created consisting of thirteen (13) members; three (3) of whom shall be members of the Rhode Island
